... into the meadow (prato) despite (nonostante) his grandfather's warnings (avvertenze) about the dangers (pericoli) of wolves. He is not afraid (non ha paura) of wolves like other boys. The meadow is a dangerous place, but Peter is fearless (senza paura).

... how quickly (quanto velocemente) the wolf is successful (efficace). A wolf chases (insegue) and catches (cattura) the duck near a pond (stagno) in the forest. Despite the duck's efforts (sforzi) to escape, the wolf catches her and eats her in one gulp (boccione).

... Peter catches the wolf by making a noose (laccio) with a rope (cappio con una corda) and tying (legando) the wolf to a tree, preventing (impedendo) the wolf from escaping (scappare). The hunters arrive and are about to shoot (stanno per sparare), but Peter stops them, claiming (dichiarendo) he has already caught the wolf with the help of a bird.

... the wolf and need help to take him to the zoo. If you listen closely, you can hear the duck quacking inside the wolf.
